

INDIAN COUNCIL OF HISTORICAL RESEARCH

IEWSLETTER

Yol. 14, No. 1, January-March 2017

CHAIRMAN'S COLUMN

As we wished in the beginning of this year, the first quarter of the new year has been very eventful and quite rewarding. Three major events were organized by ICHR in this quarter: a three-day national seminar at New Delhi (8-10 February 2017) on INA and its contribution to India's independence in the light of recently declassified INA files by the Governments of India and West Bengal; a two-day national seminar on Depiction of Epic Narratives in Indian art at Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh (8-9 March 2017); and the third national seminar on Antiquity and Continuity of Civilization in Ancient Bharat, at New Delhi (27-29 March 2017). These three seminars have fructified Council's long-term planning and consistent pursuance. Very distinguished and senior scholars in the respective fields specialization gracefully responded to our request and made their scholarly presentations. The detailed reports are on our website.

ICHR has also made significant progress in developing positive relations with the foreign academic agencies with whom it has longterm association and also with those newly joined like Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS). Academic exchanges, international workshops and summer schools for young scholars are planned with Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), Germany; Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC), UK; etc. These events will be taken up in the next quarter. A two-week training-cum-course workshop in methodology for our young scholars inviting transnational experts being planned by the ICHR. A three-day international seminar in collaboration with AHRC (UK) on Rapid Urbanization and Indian Heritage with about 15-20 experts from England and equal number from our country who specialized in urban history of India is in the pipeline. This workshop is slated for the second fortnight of May 2017. We are also making efforts to collect source data on India at least in digital form from foreign repositories as our major project of translations of source books in non-English European languages is already in good progress.

On 27th March 2017, ICHR celebrated its 45th Foundation Day with staff events and honoured two Gurus with Gurukul Fellowships recently instituted by ICHR. Internationally known vintage scholars and archaeologists, Dr B.B. Lal and Dr R.

Nagaswamy, are chosen for this year. They are given one disciple each to assist them in their work and learn nuances of the specialized study.

Now, we are busy working out for a twoweek workshop for our young scholars in Art History, which needs special attention. Indian art requires traditional knowledge base to study, understand, and appreciate. We are also planning to train our young research archaeologists through a workshopcum-course in Marine archaeology keeping in view our long coastal line. The theme is already placed on our website.

I take this opportunity to welcome into ICHR family, Dr. Anand Shanker Singh from Allahabad University, who has joined us as Member Secretary on a regular basis. We earnestly hope that he infuses more spirit and strength into our administrative machinery.

SELECTIONS FROM CHAIRMAN'S DIARY

06.01.2017: National Conference on "The Bhagvata Purana: History, Philosophy and Culture", Department of Philosophy, University of Madras, Centenary Building, Chennai - 600 005

Chairman in his inaugural address spoke on the special character of Purana as a genre of literature. The Puranic literature is generally described as 'mythical' by the Western scholars. But this literature has special significance in the ancient Indian literature. The Purana has five major characteristics or aspects. Each aspect deals with one major part of the history of universe. One of these aspects covers human history. The Purana gives us corpus of information about lineages of kings and sages and major events in the long history of human kind which is Bharat-centric. As we cherish to preserve the family history through tradition, the Purana keeps alive the collective memory of humankind unbroken for generations to come. He said that the Bhagavata tradition preserves our collective memory with the help of several art forms - theatric and folk performing arts. A student of history has a greater responsibility to collect historical material from Puranic literature and search for collaborative evidences through other sources of history, he opined.

09.01.2017: Book release function: "The Modern Monk (Penguin) on Swami Vivekananda" by Hindol Sengupta, Auditorium, Nehru Memorial Museum & Library, Teen Murti House, New Delhi

While complimenting the author the book titled, The Modern Monk, the Chairman expressed his great reverence for Swami Vivekananda who introduced Bharat to the entire world as the oldest culture and that its philosophical thought had no parallel. He said that the flow of Veda gnana is an eternal fountain ever live in Bharat. Like ancient sages who brought us Veda in a special literary form, the later gurus, sants and philosophers have been handing over this universal knowledge in a form comprehensible to the contemporary generations. Swamiji has put spirituality in a social format, he said.

16.01.2017: Seminar on 'Rediscovering Telangana: An International Seminar on the Recent Trends in Archaeology, Art History and Conservation, Department of Archaeology & Museums, Hyderabad, Government of Telangana

In his keynote address, the Chairman explained the importance of the regional history but cautioned that every region should be treated as a part of the whole while focusing light on the special characteristics of people of the region. The regional studies should enrich our understanding on the diversities while establishing its linkages and exchanges with other regions and neighboring communities. Telangana region has a great strategic importance from the remote Puranic times till the present as the central region in Bharat. On occasions, the Telangana had sway from the present Madhya Pradesh in the north, Odisha in the north-east, covering east coast up Tanjavur/Kanchipuram in to Chennai, the south and reaching up to west coast. Flourishing in trade and commerce with Africa, Europe, Burma, China and southeast Asia, the region facilitated the rise of great empires ruling north and south India. He complimented that the Department of Archaeology serving from Hyderabad has an illustrious history in developing the historical tradition under very able scholars and historians. He said that ICHR has also been providing guidance and financial assistance to various research projects on the history of the region.

01.02.2017: Seminar "History on Reconstructed through Literature: Nation, Identity and Culture", Department of English, Jai Narain Vyas University, Jodhpur

The Chairman, inaugurating the seminar, complimented the Department of English for holding this seminar on the importance of literary sources in writing history. In fact, he said, the beginning of historical phase in human development is marked with the beginning of decodable script. He further said that the archaeological artifacts or remains of ancient monuments or artistic expressions of ancient man need help from literature for interpretation and comprehension. There is a long debate on the dependability of ancient Indian literature for the use as historical sources in view of symbolism and poetic exaggerations. But, in ancient times, there was nothing like fiction in literature. Novels and stories have developed as fictions in the modern literature. The Puranas and epics claim that nothing was written by the authors, which were unreal and without any confirmed source. While we take these works as source of history, a historian should be careful to choose his material, which sounds reasonable. said that the ancient literature should not be condemned as myths and be rejected outright. Bharat is known in the world as the one which has been a knowledge society from times immemorial only because of its valuable literature, he opined.

04.02.2017: Seminar on 'Antiquity of Jainism', Organized by International School for Jain Studies, Delhi, at IIC, Delhi

While inaugurating the seminar on the antiquity of Jainism, the Chairman said that one sage, like Rsabha, was mentioned in the Rgveda at several places which Jains accept as their first Tirthankara. According to the Vedic and Jain literature, Rsabha is known to us who initiated agriculture and established family and social systems. While his historicity and chronology of the other Tirthankaras and their times are not very certain, the last two Tirthankaras are undoubtedly known to history. Jains claim that the Vedic thought and the Jain thought have many commonalities and they evolved as different streams in course of time but differ on the issue as to which of the two emerged earlier. In recent times, many studies have revealed that Jainism had also spread in other countries and continents much before the rise of Buddhism. The scholars, he appealed, should explore the spread of Jain tradition in countries other than India.

07.02.2017: 'Haryana Swarna Jayanti National Conference' e Exhibition, Haryana Through the Ages: Reflections on History, Society, Culture & Economy, Senate Hall, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra, Haryana.

While inaugurating the seminar, Chairman highlighted the significance of the venue as it was a kshetra in the real sense of the term, Dharmakshetra, where a great battle was fought for upholding Dharma some five thousand years ago. The area was also known from the puranic times as the region proper for the evolution of man. Cunningham, father of Indian archaeology, while tracing the route of Chinese pilgrim, Yuan Chwang, identifies this region that was under the rule of Hiranyakashyapa in the remote past. Since Mahabharata times to the most recent times, this place had witnessed many battles between the natives and the foreign hordes. Apart from wars and disturbances, the land is known for its fertility and water sources that this part of India is still known as prime Bharat enriched with Vedic tradition and Dharma based culture. Not only the inhabitants of this region but the whole Bharat should be proud of this piece of land, he opined.

16.03.2017: 2nd Convocation of Gour Banga University, Malda (W.B.), Gour Banga University, Malda (W.B.)

address. the Delivering convocation Chairman said that the occasion draws one's attention to the present education system. He continued, "Our elders say that education makes a man civil and human. Characterbuilding is considered the main object of the system. Our system goes a step further. spiritual accomplishments. aims at Therefore, we nurtured both apara(worldly) and para(non-worldly) systems in our education. India has a rich knowledge tradition. The English records vouchsafe the existence of pathasalas (schools) in the towns and villages where general education was taught by private teachers supported by parents. Sanskrit, vernaculars, mathematics, medicine, astronomy, astrology, etc. were taught. Literature, philosophy and other sastras were taught in gurukuls.

Till the mid-nineteenth century, our native system which was not disturbed or 'reformed' since times immemorial continued to stay. The 'new' education replacing the 'old' alienated the natives from their traditional education. We are made strangers in our own country. The 'new' education was introduced in India in an alien alphabet and the object of the 'new' system was to prepare the youth to serve in the British Government offices at lower grades. The damage caused to Indian knowledge systems was soon realized by our scholars--leaders of 19th century. This pious land, Banga, played cradle for the Indian renaissance movement which turned out to be the national movement later. Let us hope that the upcoming generations of this land take the lead in recovering what we lost in our ancient culture and wisdom.

Our leaders of the national movement have all through been conscious that the British system of education should be reformed in such a way that the objects of both systems are achieved by designing a hybrid one considering the inevitability of continuing modern system as the basic structure. What stirred the Indian intelligentsia for freedom was primarily to restore our ancient knowledge systems. Towards the close of the freedom struggle, many such models were designed and proposed with an intention that the emerging free nation could adopt it with a finest amalgam of both tradition and modernity. But so far we failed them in their aspirations with regard to our education. After independence, many commissions on education were constituted from time to time from Sri Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan Commission onwards; but even after seven decades of Indian independence, efforts are on to look for a 'New Education Policy'.

In fact, university does not mean mere concrete structures. Monastic centres of education in India sprang up with Buddhism. Earlier, there were education towns like Varanasi or Takshila where gurus and their chelas used to live in hundreds, nay, in thousands. Those cities were only conglomerations of individual houses.

As I understand that this region has long and rich history dating back to puranic times. This part of India is known from epic times with illustrious and civilizational developments as recorded in history. We should establish and strengthen the link between the past and present. We should see that young minds develop respect for the past wisdom through our education. The historical tradition has to be established so that we are not cut off from our own origins, he concluded.

SPECIAL RESEARCH PROJECTS

The ICHR, apart from providing fellowships and financial assistance to young teachers in colleges, universities and research organizations through its various grantsin-aid schemes, has also been undertaking, for the benefit of scholars and researchers in history, Special Research Projects(SRPs). During the period under report, satisfactory progress was made in two Special Research Projects: i) Translation of Foreign Sources on India: ii) Modern India: Politics and Demography, 1881-2001

ICHR LECTURE SERIES

In keeping with the avowed aim of expanding its academic base and reinforcing existing research activities, ICHR began a lecture series in 2007. During the period under report, the following lecture was organized:

4th January 2017: Dr.Sabyasachi Ghosh Professor, Department Dastidar, Politics, Economics and Law, State University of New York, Old Westbury, spoke on the topic: 'Consequences of Partition, 1947-1971: Demographic, Political, Social and Human Consequences' at the Conference Hall of ICHR, New Delhi.

The lecture was followed by an interactive session that gave an opportunity to scholars to interact with Dr. Dastidar.

SEMINARS ORGANIZED BY ICHR

National Seminar on 'The Indian Army'(INA) National contribution to Indian Independence

A three-day National Seminar on 'The Indian National Army (INA) and Its contribution to Indian Independence' was organized by ICHR from 8th to 10th February 2017 at New Delhi.

Aims and Objectives of the Seminar

Keeping in view the recent declassification of documents on various aspects of the life of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose (1897-1945) by the Government of India, this seminar was meant to bring out aspects of the formation, constitution, and contribution of INA to the cause of India's independence. One of the chief objectives of this seminar was to examine how this massive army comprising captured soldiers and nationalists in South-East Asia was organized, structured and assimilated. The purpose of the seminar was also to look at the motivations and interests behind Japanese encouragement and the response of Britain and its ally, the United States, towards these proceedings. And, of course, the towering figure of Subhas Bose was re-examined in the context of his role as chief negotiator and strategist for the INA.

Inaugural Session

The seminar commenced on the morning of 8th February 2017 at the National Museum Auditorium, New Delhi, with the igniting of the traditional lamp by the dignitaries, viz. Professor Y. Sudershan Rao, Chairman, ICHR; Major General G. D. Bakshi; Professor Purabi Roy, Member of the Council of ICHR and also the Convener of the Seminar; Dr. B. R. Mani, Director-General, National Museum; Dr. Bal Mukund Pandey, Organizing Secretary, Bhartiya Itihas Sankalan Yojna; and Dr. S. K. Aruni, Member Secretary(officiating), ICHR.

Following the ceremony of lighting of the lamp, the session began with Presidential and Opening Remarks by Prof. Y. Sudershan Rao, Chairman, ICHR. He marked this day as a great day in the history of the ICHR for remembering and offering respects to Subhas Chandra Bose and the Indian National Army. At the outset, the Chairman was glad to convey the best wishes sent by Shri Prakash Javadekarji, Hon'ble Minister of Human Resource Development (HRD), for the success of the seminar. If Gandhiji, said the Hon'ble Chairman, is Father of Nation, Subhas Bose is Neta for all Indians or Bhartiyas. According to him, what Netaji did for Indian nationalism on the political front, the same was done by Swami Vivekananda on the social and spiritual front. He announced that a workshop/seminar on Vivekananda shall soon be organized by the ICHR.

Further, Professor Rao stressed upon the need for fair and logical research on Netaji to find out the reality of his mysterious disappearance in August 1945. According to him, facts are very important to draw logical conclusion but, unfortunately, most of the post-independence literature has been created with preconceived views; this is because historians first developed logic and then corroborated it with the facts to reach at conclusion instead of finding the real facts and rallying them to a logical conclusion. He also expressed his concern that there are many claims in the regional studies that the freedom struggle was won by a particular leader or through a particular event. He stressed upon the need to acknowledge the contributions made by all heroes, equally, without any preconceived notions. According to Professor Rao, Netaji was taken as symbol of nationhood in India that created fear in the Allied Forces.

Finally, Professor Rao expressed hope that the deliberations and discussions in the three-day seminar would throw new light on the contribution of Subhas Chandra Bose to the freedom struggle of India. Before leaving the podium, he also introduced the luminaries sitting on the dais to the audience. Later in the session Professor Rao informed, to the great happiness of the audience, that ICHR had prepared short biographies of more than 1500 martyrs of INA in its Dictionary of Martyrs Project.

Chairman delivering his Presidential remarks at the seminar on INA

After the Presidential remarks of the Chairman, Professor Purabi Roy, known for her rigorous research on Netaji, introduced the theme of the seminar to the audience. She defined this event as a path-breaking one. She also acknowledged the present government's efforts for declassifying the files on Netaji and urged the Indian Government to declassify more files on Netaji kept in the custody of Defence and other Ministries. She emphasized that in the history of Independent India, it is the first occasion that two former soldiers of INA, Col. Aman Bahadur Singh and Mrs. Momota Mehta are to be felicitated by the ICHR. Unfortunately, these two revered soldiers could not attend the ceremony owing to health issues. However, the Chairman, keeping in mind their immense contributions and failing health because of old age, thought it appropriate to felicitate and honour them at their homes without any delay.

Thereafter, Dr. B. R. Mani shared some of his memories with the members of including Shah Nawaz Khan, the INA Gurbaksh Singh Dhillon, Prem Sahgal and their families. He congratulated the ICHR for organizing a seminar on this neglected theme which was akin to worshipping India's nationhood. He also referred to the INA trial at Lal Qila, Delhi, where some of the items displayed in the museum revive old memories which are fondly cherished by all Indians. Popular songs of the time like, Qadam Qadam BadhayeJa and Gali Gali se Aayi Awaz, Sahgal Dillon Shahnwaz still linger fresh in our memory.

Dr. Bal Mukund Pandey in his brief address paid rich tributes to Netaji. He commended ICHR for having made a pioneering effort by way of organizing a seminar on Netaji. He pointed out that though we see Bose's impression in all directions of India visually but our libraries are lacking sufficient literature on Netaji. He announced that in order to disseminate more information about Netaji, his organization, Bhartiya Itihas Sankalan Yojna, shall also consider organizing a one-day seminar on Netaji in April 2017 in collaboration with the ICHR. The conspicuous feature of the proposed seminar will be an interactive session wherein senior historians will respond to the queries of young scholars pertaining to the subject.

Dr. Bal Mukund Pandey addressing the audience at the seminar on INA

Dr. Bal Mukund Pandey's inspiring talk was followed by a brief talk by Major General G. D. Bakshi who evoked the nationalism in the light of Subhas Bose's contribution. He expressed his anguish for not having a clear picture till now over Netaji's mysterious disappearance and supported Professor Purabi Roy's demand for declassifying all files on Bose kept in the custody of different ministries of the Government of India in order that a clear and unbiased history could be written on this topic. On the basis of the interview of Clement Attlee, the then Prime Minister of England, who had signed the papers of India's Independence, Major General Bakshi substantiated that it was primarily because of Bose and his Indian National Army that the British were compelled to leave India.

Towards the end of the Inaugural Session, the keynote address sent by Professor Chitra Ghosh (daughter of Subhas Chandra Bose's brother and currently a Professor of Political Science, Lady Brabourne College, Kolkata) was read by Dr. Noopur Singh of ICHR). Because of some other pressing commitments, Professor Chitra Ghosh could not attend the seminar; however, she expressed her sincere regrets for not being able to make it to the seminar and also conveyed her good wishes for the success of the seminar.

The Inaugural Session of the seminar came to a close with the vote of thanks presented by Dr. S. K. Aruni, Member Secretary(officiating), ICHR. On behalf of the ICHR, he expressed gratitude to all dignitaries on the dais, Members of the Council of ICHR, delegates, and all the participants, including his colleagues at ICHR, for having taken an active part in the seminar and making it a grand success.

Academic Sessions

In the first academic session of day one of the seminar which was chaired by Professor Purabi Roy, three presentations were made: i) Major General G. D. Bakshi spoke on the topic, 'Military Evaluation of the Structure, Motivation and Combat performance of the INA'; ii) Er. Vekho Swuro presented the second paper on the topic, 'INA's first administered village in Nagaland'; iii) Sandhya Jain presented the last paper of the session on the topic, 'Indian Media, Netaji Subhas Bose and the INA: A Case Study'.

In the second academic session of the seminar which was chaired by Professor Saradindu Mukherji, the following presentations were made: i) Dr. Sumit Mukherjee spoke on the topic, 'Rashbehari Bose and Subhas Chandra Bose, Life, Action and Thought in Comparative Perspective'; ii) Colonel Gautam Das spoke on the topic, 'Japanese Invasions in Asia, 1902-1942'; iii) Dr. Abhijit Bhattacharya spoke on the topic, 'Bose: the eternal legend of Jai Hind'.

In the third academic session chaired by Professor Nikhilesh Guha, the following presentations were made: i) Professor Kaushik Roy presented the first paper on the topic, 'Japan and INA in South-East Asia: Origins and Organization of the INA'; ii) Major General P. K. Chakravorty spoke on the topic, 'Bose in South East Asia and his Negotiations with Japan: His Assessment of the way operations would result in Freedom for India'; iii) Dr. Roshan Khanijo spoke on the topic, 'Rani Jhansi Regiment'.

In the fourth academic session chaired by Professor V. K. Vashishtha, the following presentations were made: i) Dr. M. Jugindro Singh spoke on the topic, 'The First and the Last INA Headquarter of Free India'; ii) Dr. Tapan Chattopadhyay spoke on the topic, 'The Nature and Extent of INA's Freedom

Offensive: British Intelligence Assessment'.

In the fifth academic session chaired by Professor Abhijit Choudhuri, the following presentations were made: i) Dr. Monmayee Basu spoke on the topic, 'Netaji and Empowerment of Indian Women: Role of Rani Jhansi Regiment of INA in India's Independence'; ii) Professor Abhijit Choudhuri spoke on the topic, 'The "Springing Tiger" on the Eastern Frontier: Two Narratives'.

In the sixth academic session, presided over by Dr. Tapan Chattopadhyay, the following presentations were made: i) Professor Nirmala Joshi spoke on the topic, 'Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose's Perception of the Soviet Union; Ideology and Role in International Affairs'; ii) Professor V. K. Vashishtha spoke on the topic, 'Subhash Chandra Bose, Indian National Army and Rajputana States'; iii) Dr. Raj Kumar Sharma spoke on the topic, 'Subhash Chandra Bose's Views on Foreign Policy: Dominance of Realism'.

In the last academic session chaired by Professor Nirmala Joshi, the following presentations were made: i) Dr. Iqbal Malhotra presented the first paper on a very controversial topic, 'Did Subhas Bose die in the Taihoku plane crash?'; ii) Dr. Naushad Ali presented the second and the last paper of the session on the topic, 'The Indian Independence League, Indian Legion and Azad Hind Radio under Subhas Chandra Bose'.

Valedictory Session

After successful completion of the threeday academic deliberations in the seminar, valedictory session was conducted as an hour of assessment, recognition and thanksgiving to all who contributed to make it a grand success. The convener of the seminar, Professor Purabi Roy, said that she felt as if soldiers are coming back after the victory, victory of the INA. She thanked all the scholars who presented papers, dignitaries from Defence and Indian Police Services and specially Dr. Iqbal Malhotra for making a film on Bose for the Discovery Channel. She extended special thanks to the ICHR's Chairman, Professor Y. Sudershan Rao, Dr. S.K. Aruni and Dr. Noopur Singh. Professor Vashishtha, the Guest of Honour for this session, expressed the opinion that the seminar was a grand success and indeed an academic treat that kept the entire audience absorbed for three days. He thanked ICHR for bringing scholars from various parts of India to make deliberations on the role of INA in the struggle for India's Independence. He emphasized that Subhas Chandra Bose was an expert on International Relations who wanted to send cultural missions to other countries to let them know about the real culture of India

Professor Saradindu Mukherji, another Guest of Honour of the session, expressed his concern about why enough space was not given to the icons of independence in the history books and syllabi published after independence? Why certain important pages are missing from the files and authentic information has been destroyed? He thanked ICHR's Chairman Professor Rao and the staff of ICHR for making this seminar—which provided food for thought for scholars-- a grand success.

The final session of the seminar ended with warm thanks being extended by Dr. S.K. Aruni and Dr. Ramesh Yernagula to all the scholars and members of the ICHR family who contributed to make the seminar a great success.

2. Three-day National Seminar on 'Antiquity, Continuity and Development of Civilization and Culture in Bharat (India) up to Ist millennium BC" (from 27th-29th March at IIC, New Delhi)

The main objective of the seminar was to present the results of recent researches in history and archaeology and to discuss their relevance to update the present understandingontheoriginanddevelopment of civilization. The seminar also aimed at providing a platform for serious debate on the following major issues: theoretical perspectives understanding in India's ancient past; geological and climatological researches with special reference to Saraswati River; linguistic literature and philosophy; chronology and sequencing of Vedic texts; searching for connection between literature archaeology; archaeo-astronomy, chronology and dating methods.

FOUNDATION DAY CELEBRATIONS

It was on 27th March 1972 that the Indian Council of Historica Research(ICHR) was established by the Government of India as an autonomous organization to encourage objective and scientific research in various aspects of our history. Little wonder then that the Foundation Day is by far the most important event of ICHR which is celebrated every year on or around 27th March with great enthusiasm and fanfare.

This year, on the occasion of ICHR's 45th Foundation Day, a three-day National Seminar was organized on the theme: "Antiquity, Continuity and Development of Civilization and Culture in Bharat(India) up to 1st Millennium BC" during 27th-29th March 2017 at the Auditorium, India International Centre(IIC), Max Mueller Marg, New Delhi.

The Inaugural Function commenced at 10 AM on 27th March 2017; Dr. B.B. Lal (former Director-General, ASI) was the Chief Guest of the function. The Hon'ble Minister of HRD, Shri Prakash Javadekar, could not attend the Seminar due to official engagements but his best wishes were sent to the Chairman. Dr. David Frawley (Padma Bhushan Awardee, and Director, American Institute of Vedic Studies, Sante Fe, USA) was the Guest of Honour.

Dr SK Aruni introducing the dignitaries on the dais to the audience

Chairman's welcome address

To start with, Professor Y. Sudershan Rao, Chairman, ICHR extended a warm welcome to the entire audience that participated in the ICHR's 45th Foundation Day celebrations.

The Chairman said:

"On such occasions, ICHR usually organizes a lecture by a distinguished scholar. During the first year of my three-year tenure, I had the honour of inviting Pandit Vamadeva Sastryji (Dr David Frawley) to deliver the prestigious lecture. In his scholarly lecture he drew our attention to the Vedic literature and explained how rich it is with historical content. Last year, we invited distinguished professor, Dr. Satish Chandra Mittal, who presented an excellent exposition critiquing Indian historiography. This year, ICHR proposed to have a 3-day national seminar keeping in view the sincere calls of these two eminent scholars who stressed upon the need for a fresh look on our sources of ancient history and to revisit our history narratives in colonial and post-colonial times. Further, we take this opportunity to take a step forward in this seminar a critical assessment of the attempting latest research finds in historical, geological, linguistic and other allied disciplines so that we can correct, reaffirm and update our knowledge about our past, both recent and remote.

This seminar will make an attempt to address the recent finds of researches in various allied disciplines and the problems and limitations of these disciplines, which are making serious efforts in delving into our past.

"The object of this scholarly endeavor of this three-day seminar backed up by at least two years constant consultations is to kick start for a multi-disciplinary approach to understand the major problems in constructing the true ancient history of Bharat that is presently called India.... This seminar has been planned to have five academic sections-- history, archaeology, geology, literature and philosophy.

INDIAN HISTORICAL REVIEW(IHR)*

*listed in Thomson Reuters Citation Index

The IHR, brought out since 1974 by the ICHR, has been an important means of transmitting results of researches in history. It has won wide recognition for its comprehensive and balanced coverage of different periods, as well as its high academic and editorial standards. It is indeed among the most prestigious publications of ICHR and is perhaps the only journal of its kind that has been published continuously for more than 40 years. It is one of the few journals in India with an elaborate system of referral of all contributions to experts.

The IHR will continue to serve a broad range of research interest in Indian history from early times to contemporary history, and in the various specializations or subdisciplines which have developed in the area of historical studies.

Professor Dilip K. Chakrabarti(Professor Emeritus of South Asian Archaeology, Cambridge University, UK) is the Editorin-Chief of IHR. The technical work of production and marketing is taken care of by Sage Publications(India) Pvt. Ltd., New Delhi.

During the period under report, IHR, Vol. 44, No. 1(June 2017) of IHR was sent to Sage Publications for publication. The articles/review article included in this issue are listed below:

LIBRARY-CUM-DOCUMENTATION CENTRE

LIBRARY

The ICHR library, the knowledge hub of the organization, provides comprehensive access to books, journals, theses and dissertations covering diverse disciplines. Regardless of where we are in the world, the advances in new technologies, and the new generations of students and researchers who we welcome, the primary purpose and enduring value of ICHR library is to enable intellectual discovery. During the period under review, around 500 scholars visited the library for reference work.

It has been a busy time as we continue to develop the range of our services to staff and scholars. Many of the key services that we offer have seen significant uptake over this period. ICHR Library has developed an improved technical infrastructure to support Open Access work flow for the scholars.

The library has also been providing xerox copies of academic reference to the scholars on demand at a nominal rate of Re. 1/- per page. About 7200 exposures were delivered to the scholars for their research requirement with complete satisfactory report.

Being a member of the DELNET (Developing Library Network), the library has an advantage of accessing bibliographic information of books and can borrow books on Inter Library Loan from different libraries of Delhi and some of the libraries in other parts of the country.

A Library Sub-Committee meeting was held on 21st March 2017 and approximately 165 books largely on Indian history and allied disciplines, including reference books and books relating to the history of Asia and neighbouring countries, were selected for purchase.

The reference section provides information and resources via telephone, email and through personal support to the research and study needs of scholars. The reading room of the ICHR Library is kept open from 9.30 am to 5.30 pm on all days, with the exception of Sundays and gazetted holidays. Scholars are welcome to offer suggestions for improvement of the library.

DOCUMENTATION CENTRE

The Documentation Centre has received, during the period under report, a total of 46 M. Phil. dissertations/Ph.D. theses, project-reports and source material from all Grants-in-Aid units of the Council, under different schemes of financial grant.

Documentary Film

During this period, the Library-cum-Documentation Committee had approved to develop the documentary film which can disseminate information about the significance and importance of historical research in India and the role of ICHR for promoting dynamic and diversified research in Indian History. The duration of the film may be 30-45 minutes and includes the content of the film to be covered with value and need, scope and importance of historical research, objectives and visions of the Council, growth and development of the Council and role of the grants given to the National Fellows, Senior Research Fellows and Junior Research Fellows for conducting historical research and other experts for expansion and bringing unknown information and unpublished information to the world funded by ICHR.

DHARA (Digital Historical Academic Repository Access) Archival Portal

The Library-cum-Documentation Committee has given a unique name for wider access and dissemination of the Council's historical digital archive, namely DHARA (Digital Historical Academic Repository Access) for bona fide scholars, including interested scholars. The digitization of various reports, including old issues of ICHR journal, thesis and dissertations submitted by research scholars of JRF and PDF funded by ICHR, Proceedings of Seminars/ Conference / Workshops funded by ICHR; videos of various lectures and academic programmes sponsored/ funded by ICHR, etc. was done by the Centre.

Digitization of Photographs, Slides of Historical Sites and Monuments

During this period, the Documentation initiated the collection of old Centre Photographs, Slides of historical Sites and Monuments from the Private Collections and Institutions for Digitization. The Scholars who are in possession of photographs of historical and archaeological sites, slides of their field work which include various sites, monuments, etc., may approach the Documentation Centre for their These collections would be digitization. returned back to the scholars after their digital conversion.

Research Trends

The Documentation Centre has initiated analysis on research trends of subscribed e-resources of the Documentation Centre. The Documentation Centre of the Council is facilitated to access remotely for the online databases, online journals of historical resources like JSTOR, Project Muse, through RemotesXS tool for bona fide scholars of the Council (JRF, PDF, National Fellows, Staff and Council members) and interested scholars across India. CULTURAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMME

ICHR is a nodal agency for implementation of many Cultural Exchange Programmes (CEPs) signed by Government of India with various countries of the world through the agency of which the Council contributes significantly to furthering historical research and fostering closer cultural cooperation between India and the world.

During the period under report, the following progress was made under the CEP:

1. Indo-Japan

Visit of delegation from JSPS to ICHR

A delegation from the JSPS and representatives of Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology (MEXT), as listed hereunder, visited the ICHR on 30th January to discuss the future activities to be undertaken jointly under this collaboration:

i) Mr. Ei Takeuchi, Director, International Science and Technology Affairs

- Division, Science and Technology Policy Bureau, MEXT
- ii) Ms. Mariko Kobayashi, Director, International Programme Department
- iii) Mr. Hideyuki Yamaguchi, Head, Bilateral Cooperation Division, International Programme Department.
- iv) Mr. Daisuke Kobayashi, Staff Member, Bilateral Cooperation Division, International Programme Department.
- v) Mr. Junichi Hirata, Senior Specialist for International Research Coordination, International Science and Technology Affairs Division, Science and Technology Policy Bureau, MEXT
- vi) Ms.Yumi Ogasawara, Trainee, International Science and Technology Affairs Division, Science and Technology Policy Bureau, MEXT.

In the meeting, Mr.Ei Takeuchi expressed that his Ministry was interested in a joint research on the history of India's independence movement that had been developed before and after the Second World War and its relationship with Japan. The RPC held on 21st March 2017 approved the taking up of the Joint Research Project on the said theme.

2. Indo- German

a. ICHR-DFG Lecture Series Programme

The RPC held on 21st March 2017 approved the names of four historians to visit Germany in the year 2016-17 under the ICHR-DFG

Lecture Series Programme. These names are: Dr.Saradindu Mukherji, Prof. C.I. Issac, Prof. Kiran Kant Choudury and Prof. Raghuvendra Tanwar.

b. ICHR-DFG Summer and Winter School

The RPC held on 21st March 2017 approved the name of Dr.Saradindu Mukherji as the nodal point (academics) from Indian side for the joint Indo-German summer school in Germany and an Indo-German winter school in India (two weeks each). The objective is to jointly select and invite 10 young scholars or so from each country into a "cohort building" process. Candidates will need the approval of both sides. The aim of the winter/summer schools is to build up methodological and academic competencies in historical research and history writing. The groups participating in both schools shall be identical in order to consolidate the network in view of potential future collaboration.

The focus will be on "Problem-oriented New Methodologies in Historiography". The winter school and the summer school will be focusing on recently discovered and/or digitized archival holdings to be jointly selected by ICHR and DFG, so that there will be both teaching and research elements. Both sides will agree upon one coordinator on each side and a team of 3-4 senior scholars to carry out the schools.

3. EU-India Platform for the Social Sciences and Humanities (EqUIP)

Symposium and Meeting

The Chairman, ICHR has been invited to attend the EqUIP Showcasing Event: 'Research with Impact' on 24-25th April 2017 and the EqUIP Steering Committee to be held on 26th April 2017 in Brussels.

This event will bring together high level policy and research stakeholders to discuss the potential impact of collaboration between Europe and India in the Social Sciences and Humanities for research and policy innovation to address global societal challenges. The event will consist of presentations and a panel discussion between academic, policy and research funding stakeholders working on issues relevant to EqUIPs strategic research agenda.

The international travel, visa fee and the local hospitality will be taken care of by EqUIP.

4. Indo-UK

New RCUK India Director, Mr Daniel Shah and Ms Geeny George visited ICHR on 15th February 2017 to meet the Chairman; Dr. Saradindu Mukherji, Member of the Council of ICHR, also attended the meeting. This was a follow-up meeting of Dr Nafees Meah, RCUK India and Ms Geeny George with the Chairman, ICHR on 7th September 2016 to discuss the possibility of funding long-term joint research project to take further the theme of 'Rapid Urbanisation and Cultural Heritage in India'.

So far, the AHRC-ICHR research partnership under the theme of heritage and impact of urbanization on heritage has conducted a joint workshop in 2014 and funded four research networking projects in 2015-16.

The RPC, held on 21st March 2017, approved to organize a workshop working towards the new call in the third week of May 2017 before the announcement of the joint research project call.

Some key points of the proposed research programme are:

- The new call is proposed as a longterm, collaborative, inter-disciplinary joint UK- India research programme to understand the impact of rapid urbanisation on India's cultural heritage; consider the historical development of cities and the role of heritage.
- It is anticipated that joint projects will interrogate issues such as the place of heritage in urban planning; role of digitization in preserving heritage; the impact of urbanization on intangible heritage, historic spaces, etc.
- AHRC has approximately acquired £250k for this programme.
- ICHR will provide matched resources to support the researcher.

REGIONAL CENTRES

With a view to reaching out to far-flung areas of the country, the Council runs three regional centres: at Bengaluru, Guwahati and Pune These centres have been actively involved in helping scholars carry out their research by providing library infrastructure and organizing regional and state level seminars, symposia, workshops, exhibitions, etc.

An Appeal To History Fraternity

Dear esteemed colleagues and friends,

I am delighted to inform you that the Council intends to hear from you if you have any suggestions to make for improvising the structural framework, projects, programs, rules, regulations and functioning of Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR) which is getting closer to celebrate its golden jubilee in the year 2021-22. As you all know, this is the only research funding body for Historical studies at the national level wholly supported by Government of India; every one of the fraternity will certainly be interested to further strengthen the body to serve more effectively and justifiably. Most of you might have served in various capacities in the Council in official and /or non-official capacities or consultants or as beneficiaries. I shall be glad to receive your comments and suggestions by 1st of June 2017 to the email id: <code>suggestions@ichr.ac.in</code>

The Council will convene a conference in the second week of June 2017 with select former officials, members, representatives of the professional associations conducting annual sessions regularly, past chairmen and member secretaries. Your views will be communicated to the participants in advance so that relevant points may reflect in the discussions of the conference.

Your specific recommendations may be made on the following references:

- Memorandum of Association (MoA), aims and objects, rules and regulations etc as stated in the MoA. (The text of the MoA can be viewed on the ICHR website),
- Research Funding Rules (The latest booklet can be viewed in the ICHR website),
- Norms relating to evaluation of proposals for research, travel grants, study grants and fellowships,
- To define ICHR's relationship with the professional organizations, research centers and voluntary trusts and associations, working for the historical research at national, regional, local and individual levels and
- On any other aspect which you like to convey specifically.

The ICHR is looking forward to your valuable contribution to our effort to make our effort more meaningful and purposeful to facilitate historical studies.
